WILLOW TEAM WINS ON HOMER IN NINTH

Playground Outfits Meet in Intergroup Games at Lincoln Park.

The second of a series of Y M C A. interplayground contests was held yesterday at Lincoln park. In the first recreational baseball game the Willow street Giants won from the Lincoln Park Yanks. Up to the ninth inning, Lincoln was in the lead, 6 to 4, when Ted Kull smashed out a home run with two men on base, making the final score 7 to 6 for Willow. The batteries for the game were T. Caprino and C. Caprino for Lincoln and Cheney and Schaadt for Willow.

A shut out was scored by the playground all-stars in the second game when the Willow street substitutes went down, 8 to 0. Shovel batteries were Huggins and Caprino, with Jones and Murphy doing the act for Willow. The all stars represented the pick of the Shovel and Lincoln grounds.

The Lincoln Midgets defeated the Steam Shovel Red Sox, 7 to 2, with Predmore and Conroy as batteries for Lincoln and Konkle and Land for the Red Sox.

The next interplayground contest is scheduled for next Wednesday with Willow street as the home team, but due to the diamonds at Willow street not being completed yet the games will be played at the Central Junior High diamonds.

The program at Willow street this morning included games and contests and a "tie" W. C. Brown ferrets out a knot tying. Tests were also given to those boys who were going to take them. These tests are of the emblem work of the playgrounds.

FACE SLASHED

Negro Injured in Fight, Ordered To Leave City.

A Negro whose name was not learned was taken to the city hospital by the police yesterday afternoon with a deep gash in the right cheek as the result of a fight with another Negro on Bellefontaine avenue earlier in the afternoon.

The police who responded to a call sent in from an attendant at a filling station on Kenton avenue said the two men had been fighting when one of the Negroes picked up a piece of broken window pane and slashed the other on the right cheek.

When the police arrived both men had disappeared but the injured man was later found near the Hocrell ice plant and was taken to the city hospital where it was said his cheek was cut through to the glass. After having his wound dressed he was ordered to leave the city by police.

Long Island Matron Reduces From 190 To 126 Pounds

"Never Felt Better In My Life," She Writes, "My Friends Say It's Marvelous." Looks Years Younger.

Kruschen Salts, a combination of SIX separate minerals which glands, nerves and body organs ought to have to function properly, actually feeds your starved system those elements the lack of which usually causes the accumulation of excess fat.

Just go to Heaney & Cooper or any leading drugstore and get Kruschen (an 85c bottle lasts 4 weeks) take a half teaspoonful every morning before breakfast—you can hasten the reducing action by going lighter on potatoes, pastries and fatty meats.

Almost from the start you feel a marked improvement in health—much more energy and strength—more activity—the trim, dashing swing of youth will be yours. Complexion clears, eyes grow bright—and joy of joys!

Embarrassing fat starts to rapidly vanish week by week, your scales show a gratifying loss and you achieve the normal and healthy figure Nature intended each and every woman to have.

Mrs. H. Price of Woodside, L. I., writes: "A year ago I weighed 190 lbs. I started to take Kruschen and now I weigh 126 and never felt better in my life and what's more I look more like 26 years old than the mother of 2 children, one 10 and the other 18. Every one of my friends say it's marvelous the way I reduced."

Use Kruschen not only because it's more economical but because it's safe, more efficient and more healthful than other methods because it keeps the body free from poisons and acids at all times and is guaranteed. Adv.

Accounts should include the place of the reunion this year, next year's meeting place, officers elected and features of the program.

DEATH MYSTERY

Believed slain in the identical manner in which his brother, Earl, met death 24 years ago, Charles W. Eldredge (above), Illinois game warden, was found shot to death on his private game preserve near Richmond, in Lake county, Illinois. Friendship of Post and Gatty Ranks Them as 'Damon and Pythias of the Air'

Secretary of State Stimson wished Post and Gatty good luck when they journeyed to Washington to obtain permission to fly over Russia.

THIS is the sixth in a series of eight installments in a life story of Wiley Post, "globe galloper," by Leon H. Durst, Associated Press writer. The previous installments have traced the career of this Texas born farm youth as barnstormer, chief test pilot for an air factory, and as a man who carefully laid his aviation groundwork.

• • •

(Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Press.)

His months as chief test pilot at the Burbank, Calif., airplane factory gave glow to the dream of Wiley Post to do something "big for aviation."

Art Goebel's record non-stop transcontinental flight in 1928 and 1929 refueling endurance contests further whetted his aviation appetite.

He says his hopes for a refueling flight were dashed after he had collected checks to back him. "I got the checks," he relates, "on a Saturday. Sunday a couple of other fliers went up and crashed, and Monday my checks were no good."

Post expected to go after the transcontinental record during last year's national air races, hoping to fly in the Pacific non-stop derby to Chicago, where he would refuel and head for New York.

He became lost but won the derby. He felt he could not go on to New York. In this race from Los Angeles to Chicago he roared home winner over a fast field, which included Goebel. His time was nine hours, nine minutes and four seconds.

• • •

Another "Winnie Mae"

As in his earth-circling course, he piloted a "Winnie Mae," provided by F. C. Hall, the oil man, who backed him and Harold Gatty on their record-breaking world trip.

About two years ago, Hall says, Post began to agitate for the round-the-world flight. He spoke about it at practically every opportunity. And he finally won over Hall.

"He finally sold it to me," Hall says. "Sold it to me on the idea that it was a sporting proposition. Just a sporting proposition. That's all it was to me."

It was while this bee buzzed in his bonnet that Post met the person to whom he passes much of the success of that globe-circling feat—his quiet and studious navigator, Australia-born Harold Gatty.

"Coste and Bellonte, the French fliers, were a great pair but they have nothing on us when it comes to co-operation," says Post.

"We work together. I have every confidence in the world in Gatty's ability as a navigator and feel that one could hook the world over and not find another one like him."

Form Close Friendship

The friendship of Post and Gatty—the Damon and Pythias of the air—dates from their meeting more than a year ago on the Pacific coast. Founded on mutual respect, it ripened rapidly. Post's talk of a world flight drew encouragement from Gatty.

When Harold Bromley took off last summer from Japan on a non-stop flight to America, Gatty rode with him as navigator and successfully chartered a return to land when they were forced back from about 1,200 miles out on account of a broken exhaust valve.

In taciturnity, the pilot and the navigator of the wondrous "Winnie Mae" register about the same, with Gatty probably having a bit the edge. When questions are fired at them by inquisitive reporters they look at each other and shyly smile, each giving the impression that the other should do the talking.

Each man listens closely to the other, and the observer often detects nods of encouragement from the partner in reticence.

Post just could not understand why the slender Australian had to hang so fondly over his books in preparation for their fame-crowned cruise. "If I was doing that end of it, I'd of had those figures all memorized by now," he once jokingly said.

Keeps on Studying

Gatty smiled, leafing through the thousand odd pages of tables, logarithms and charts to reply.

Fellow, you work the other end of this plane and I'll do this end. You know we want to take that round the world record from the balloons."

Then the rugged Wiley gave the back of the scholarly Harold a verile, good-natured whack that must have shaken him to his shoes.

Somehow these two "five-foot-fivers" in height have the knack of understanding each other. They seem to like about the same things, both love their home firesides, when adventure in the skies is not knocking at the door. The 28-year old Gatty has three boys with whom he likes to romp of an evening, and the 32-year old Post has an aviation-thinking wife with whom he loves to fly.

Both have won golden opinion from plane experts. No less a commentator that Col. Charles Lindbergh says that Gatty, who gave Mrs. Lindbergh lessons in how to fly, "is one of the greatest navigators in the world."

That's how Post feels too, about his aid of the air. And to every encomium for Post as a pilot comes the Australian's "amen."

(Tomorrow: Post makes preparations for a world flight).

A machine has been invented to test the effectiveness of anti-Egypt by English explorers.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

What effect have harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos upon the throat? A famous authority, retained by us to study throat irritation, says:

"The tissues above and below the vocal chords and the vocal chords themselves may become acutely or chronically congested as a result of the inhalation of irritating fumes in the case of chemists for example."

LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays, expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. So "Consider your Adam's Apple"—that is your larynx—your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. TO CUT CORNERS

Will Remove Sharp Turn at Forest and Church Street.

A program of eliminating the sharp angles at many of the street corners in the city, started by Director D. J. Harlow this week will be continued with the sharp curve of the two corners at the intersection of Church and Forest streets, the service director

The service director said he hopes to remove one corner entirely for the reason that catch basins are placed at the extreme point of each of the corners and motorists who drive over the curb frequently break the top plate of the basin, thus adding to the expense to the city as well as a menace to traffic. The service director recently completed the cutting back of the sharp corner at Church and Center streets, another intersection reported as a menace because of the

Today's Radio Talk

Hello everybody. Well, sir, I thought those Sohio molecule-busters had blown my hat off for the last time when they put that permanent wave in my hair showing me the ins-and-outs—and what I couldn't help feeling might turn out any minute to be the ups-and-downs—of the heroic treatment they give plain good gasoline in the process of super-refining that produces heat-tempered Sohio Ethyl and X-70.

But believe me, they lifted the old chapeau again—lifted it higher than a kite—by their speed in snapping up the simple little suggestion I made to them the other day in a letter.

That's just what my own estimate was—it was a little suggestion. But doggoned if my Sohio buddies didn't grab it up with the same shoot-the-works spirit they showed when they defied the lightning and gave the world its first Heat-Tempered gasolines. Back they slammed with a telegram telling me that my little thought was a BIG IDEA.

They were ready to match my small nugget with FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS in Gold—AND a Grand Prize of an all-expense trip, easily worth $2,000.00, for two, in other words, a swell time for myself and 1 people to three European countries—if I'd sit in on a committee along with Chief Air Races Henderson and Tom (Ethyl Discoverer) Midgely, and help judge letters from users of Sohio Heat-Tempered fuels.

To be absolutely frank, I wouldn't touch the average "contest" with a ten-foot pole. Wouldn't want to have anything to do with it. But I knew there wouldn't be any string connected with anything that Sohio bunch went to bat with. What's happening to Sohio sales is just a reflection of the men behind the Heat-Tempered gasolines. They're on the up and up," too!

So I am taking them up. I've got the same sort of feeling for the Sohio Heat-Tempered fuels as—well, as a fellow has for a god-child. I was in at their birth, and one unforgettable experience of mine is the trip through that blistering inferno where good gasoline was being cracked and pressured under unheard-of pressures—a boiled and fried and frizzessed over unheard of heats—pressured and squeezed and twisted between specially enveloped alloy steels that might and might not hold—in order that the best fuels ever should flow from Sohio pumps.

You, boys and girls, I've got a god-fatherly interest in this contest. Down in New York, you know, Elmer

Floyd Gibbons asked:
...Why not let the drivers tell it?
[Excerpt from recent letter by Floyd Gibbons to the Standard Oil Company of Ohio]
"...and I came away after helping you launch those new heat-tempered gasolines last April, convinced that they would prove up exactly 100 per cent when the Ohio public said "Show us!" From all reports reaching these seaboard parts Sohio sure has showed 'em.
"So here's a thought hot from the old percolator: Why not gather the rest of the Sohio Heat-Tempered Gasoline story straight from the road? Let the driver whose brand new buggy has given even better performance with Sohio heat-tempered gasolines than the car salesman promised—let him tell about it. Also the fellow who's found that the new Sohio fuels have put new life in the car he figured was ready for the boneyard.
"The folks who are switching to heat-tempered gasoline must have thousands of yarns to tell of plus performance and plus mileage. Wouldn't it be a swell idea to give them the platform? ..."
Sohio answered: Great idea, Floyd!
We'll make it a Prize Contest ...

Now, tune in on FLOYD GIBBONS
Hello everybody. Well, sir, I thought those Sohio molecule-busters had blown my hat off for the last time when they put that permanent wave in my hair showing me the ins-and-outs—and what I couldn't help feeling might turn out any minute to be the ups-and-downs—of the heroic treatment they give plain good gasoline in the process of super-refining that produces heat-tempered Sohio Ethyl and X-70.
But believe me, they lifted the old chapeau again—lifted it higher than a kite—by their speed in snapping up the simple little suggestion I made to them the other day in a letter.
That's just what my own estimate was—it was a little suggestion. But doggoned if my Sohio buddies didn't grab it up with the same shoot-the-works spirit they showed when they defied the lightning and gave the world its first Heat-Tempered gasolines. Back they slammed with a telegram telling me that my little thought was a BIG IDEA.
They were ready to match my small nugget with FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS in Gold—AND a Grand Prize of an all-expense trip, easily worth $2,000.00, for 2 people to three European countries—if I'd sit in on a committee along with Chief Air Races Henderson and Tom (Ethyl Discoverer) Midgely, and help judge letters from users of Sohio Heat-Tempered fuels.
To be absolutely frank, I wouldn't touch the average "contest" with a ten-foot pole. Wouldn't want to have anything to do with it. But I knew there wouldn't be any string connected with anything that Sohio bunch went to bat with. What's happening to Sohio sales is just a reflection of the men behind the Heat-Tempered gasolines. They're on the up and up," too!
So I am taking them up. I've got the same sort of feeling for the Sohio Heat-Tempered fuels as—well, as a fellow has for a god-child. I was in at their birth, and one unforgettable experience of mine is the trip through that blistering inferno where good gasoline was being cracked and pressured under unheard-of pressures—a boiled and fried and frizzessed over unheard of heats—pressured and squeezed and twisted between specially enveloped alloy steels that might and might not hold—in order that the best fuels ever should flow from Sohio pumps.
You, boys and girls, I've got a god-fatherly interest in this contest. Down in New York, you know, Elmer

Thus the comet supposedly "discovered" by the astronomers in 1927 and "rediscovered" again this year, was in reality discovered by the camera twenty nine years ago and has been visible during all the intervening years.

The Other Side.

Critics of the federal farm board never admit that anything it does is right. That would weaken their stand. One might imagine, however, that the farm board would enlist considerable support, say in Kansas, the wheat state. True, it hasn't raised the price of wheat any, but it probably has helped keep it from dropping out of sight. At least, whatever good effects it eventually may have will be widely operative in Kansas.

How does Kansas feel about it? More specifically, how do the thousands of Kansas farmers who make a living raising wheat feel about it?

Last summer, when the farm board asked for reduced wheat acreage in order to avoid creating a surplus, a spokesman for the Kansas wheat farmers said they indorsed the acreage-reduction proposal, because, if other states adopted it, Kansas could increase its acreage and reap what benefits were to be had. Of course, there was no reduction, and Kansas reaped no special benefits.

Another characteristic Kansas gesture is now available for comment. The Kansas state tax commission has ruled that more than 20,000,000 bushels of Stabilization corporation wheat stored in Kansas elevators is subject to taxation by the state and its subdivisions. The levy is estimated at half a million dollars.

This may be sound tax theory, but it's doubtful tact. The wheat can't be hidden and it can't very well be removed from the state. Furthermore, the taxpayer is the same gentleman who appropriated millions of dollars to buy the wheat in an effort to help Kansas wheat farmers—jolly old Uncle Sam. It's a made-to-order situation for the tax commission.

Ohio farmers, and farmers in every state where wheat is not the "big crop" may be excused for not showing enthusiasm or even respectful interest in the federal government's attempts to build up the morale of farmers in the Sunflower state, if Kansas farmers permit such a tax to be levied. The idea of farm relief is fine, but if the people to be relieved want to bite the hand extended at great ex-

County Roads Fairly Safe.

If Highways, the official magazine of the Ohio Good Roads federation may be accepted as an authority, the new motor license measure to go into effect in 1932 will provide more state aid for county roads than would a law that may be passed by the existing session. Marion county's share of the $15,000,000 apportionment would be approximately $93[illegible] according to the figuring of Highways Topics.

An increase of $10,000,000 as a result of the change in the method of taxing motor vehicles would be a decrease in revenue resulting from the tax on gasoline to pay nothing if any other methods of raising revenue of any possible amounts which may be voiced by the state government as I go along way toward bridging the gap between the widest foe me and its expenditures. It will not avail the w[illegible] it is true but it will prove a splendid start on the undertaking to make the state's finances balance.

And to get the proposition nearer home, [illegible] addition relative to the county will come in very handy in figuring the problem of maintaining [illegible] in default of the refusal of the voters of the county to approve the road levy sought by the board of county commissioners. A [illegible] of [illegible] will not be over-generous to the county. Perhaps thirty per cent of it will go to reimburse the treasury for what it will cost as the result of the elimination of the personal property tax [illegible] on the property [illegible] annual receipts amounting to approximately $[illegible] will be a decided advantage to the county's revenue for [illegible] years. All things considered it may be just as well that the proposed road levy to run for a period of five years was defeated by the voters.

The financial situation of the county as the result of this new and other comparatively new legislation will be infinitely better than that which the city of Marion faces. The county seemingly has received the proper medicine for what's ailing it and a cure may be predicted. The situation of the city is still precarious and the remedy to effect its cure is still to be discovered.

Mr. Truax To Be Well Paid

Not a little comment and some criticism has been occasioned by the action of the state department of agriculture in naming Charles V. Truax to act for three months as assistant to State Fair Manager Charles Beer and handle, at least ostensibly, the fair publicity. For the three month period of his employment Mr. Truax is to receive $2,500 by way of compensation, which is approximately $833 a month.

During the administration of Governor Donahey, the state fair publicity was handled for as comparatively little as $200 a month and under Governor Cooper the job was done for $250 monthly for the period of employment. It is true that Mr. Truax served under Governor Donahey as director of agriculture, and it may be that his services are deemed four times as valuable as those of the men who have preceded him in the fair publicity job on that account. And it is not impossible that they might so prove were he to devote them to the preparation of news and advertising copy as did his predecessors. But word comes from Columbus that Mr. Truax has turned over to an advertising agency the preparation of copy for both reading notices and display advertising which naturally creates a fear regarding how he is to apply himself in behalf of the state fair to earn the $2,500 he is to receive.

We have taken occasion to comment the action of the state administration in [illegible] something like three score employes from connection with the state payroll in the campaign of economy. The employment of Mr. Truax at $2,500 to handle a [illegible] publicity, important details of which he has seen fit to turn over to an advertising agency, forces the conclusion that the administration's economy program is somewhat "phony." It may not be the correct diagnosis of the case but about the only one which [illegible] is that the state agricultural department has seen fit to reward Mr. Truax for his part "patriotism at public expense."

The World's Greatest City.

Preliminary figures of the British census of 1931 show that London is easily the most populous city in the world. The population of Greater London is placed by them at 8,202,818, which is 1,220,891 in excess of the 6,981,927 population of Greater New York.

Unlike New York City, there is nothing in the territory about London to estop it from spreading in all directions. The Thames is a very ordinary stream not so great a bar as the East river, and not to be compared with the Hudson. There is no bay near London to obstruct its development as is the case with New York. As a result, it has spread out, while New York has been compelled to build upward. Thus it is that it more greatly exceeds New York in area than it does in population.

But in one respect the tendency of the two cities in recent years has been alike. The movement in both of them the last ten years has been away from the heart of the city toward the less thickly settled districts. The center of both of them has actually lost population, the increase in population gained in each being in what may be called its suburban districts. The city of London proper is not dissimilar in size to Marion. The county of London, forming the central portion of the metropolis, has a population of 4,396,821. Around this is the great "outer ring" which has grown 81,319 in population and now has a population of 3,805,997.

Together these are known as Greater London. A corresponding area—and all this London area is continuous and solidly built up—would include such New Jersey cities as Newark and Jersey City, such New York state cities as Yonkers and Mount Vernon and all of Long Island.

There may be three or four respects in which New York City far surpasses London but area and population are not among them. In these [illegible] London is the world's greatest Editorial Opinion.

HOOVER'S NEW DIPLOMACY.

After two weeks of hammering and pounding Washington has succeeded in obtaining French approval of the substance of Mr. Hoover's debt holiday plan. Finding Premier Laval's government stubborn the President matched it with an equal stubbornness, and also brought Great Britain and Italy to his side with a good deal of skill so that in the long run France has made larger concessions than the United States.

The definitive settlement reached Monday is important on several counts. It seals an international agreement destined to save the German republic from financial and political chaos. It transcends politics, is a masterful stroke in the interest of humanity and a restoration of measurable prosperity to the world. It shows the power of American diplomacy when the administration chooses to inject its influence into world affairs. Finally, it strengthens the domestic political fortunes of Mr. Hoover.

When the lesser effects of the moratorium are realized and taken for granted there doubtless will remain one lasting result. For the first time since the World war the United States, under President Hoover, has assumed world leadership, through diplomatic channels, and has proved its ability to guide the welfare of the family of nations with authority and justice.

Perhaps the calling of the disarmament conference of 1922 at Washington might also be called a case of American leadership but this was a matter of liquidating the worst heritage of the war, the surplus of naval armaments, and did not mark a change of national policy.

On the other hand, the Hoover moratorium plan implies a determination of the administration to thrust the power of American diplomacy into world politics, and to use it in building a more just and lasting economic and political order.

This is a profound change of heart for the Republican administrations, which since 1921 until now have pretended that Europe does not exist that her problems are not of concern to us, and that we can live our national life apart from the world. It was high time that these absurdities were outgrown, and Mr. Hoover and his advisers seem to have set to work to bring it about.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Severe Dieting Harmful.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Many persons grow fat. But in spite of their remorse and apparent dismay they continue habits which increase their weight.

As a rule I am not in favor of vigorous dieting. I believe this has become too much of a fad in recent years. What with diets, daily advertised, there is no doubt that harm is being done.

For persons who are overweight, I advise restriction of food. But severe dieting, with sudden and marked loss of weight, will do more harm to the body than overweight can possibly do.

Obesity as a rule is the result of excessive eating. In most cases when appetite is controlled, the weight is reduced.

I have observed individuals who refrain from eating nourishing food which is required, yet who indulge freely in pastries, sweets and other fattening foods. These foods are not needed by the body, but they do greatly facilitate increase in weight.

If you would be thinner, the amount of food taken must be diminished, but not entirely eliminated, of course. Foods containing necessary vitamins and important proteins must be included in the diet. Excessive eating of carbohydrates can be omitted without damage to the body.

Eating between meals is not essential to health. Indeed it is one of the chief sins of the obese. In attempting to reduce, the first rule to follow is absolute avoidance of between-meal eating. Common sense management of daily eating must be practiced if loss of weight is desired.

The individual who really desires of losing weight and is cooperative and intelligent can do so with safety to his health. He must train himself to temperance and though the results may take time, it is the only safe method.

Loss of weight must be gradual. A loss of two pounds a week is sufficient and one should not endeavor to lose more. Rapid reduction in weight will impair the health by impairing the strength of the heart and nervous system.

Please remember that a reduction in weight requires the formation of new eating habits. Once these have been acquired you will be able to hold your new weight without any supreme effort.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

J. H. K. Q.—I have had a cracked tongue for over four years and have never had any satisfaction from the doctors I have consulted. What is the cause and what treatment would be helpful?

2.—I also have a swollen tonsil which condition has persisted for about two years—the swelling is about the size of a hickory nut and very hard. The condition is relieved by gargling. What would you advise in this case also.

A.—The crack may be due to hyperacidity but it might be wise to have a blood test so that definite advice and treatment can be outlined.

2. See a doctor and he will advise the treatment you require. A swollen tonsil indicates some underlying condition and since this condition has persisted for such a long time you should have proper medical attention and advice as soon as possible.

Einstein's New Quest.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

In the third of his Forest Hill Memorial lectures at Oxford university, which conferred upon him the honorary degree of doctor of science, Professor Albert Einstein has taken the world into his confidence regarding his present researches. The confessions of this lecture show the extraordinary difficulties with which he is confronted and the almost haphazard way in which he is forced to proceed. Since that time he has presented the mathematical results of his latest researches to the Berlin Academy of Sciences. Of into the Berlin Academy of Sciences. Of into four possible paths of approach he has found that two lead in the proper direction.

In the field equations of the general relativity theory space was described both mathematically and physically. The equations were two-fold in nature. They not only described the metrical properties of space namely its geometry, they also incorporated the law of gravitation, namely the physics of space. It happens, however, that physical space comprises not only gravitational fields but also electro-magnetic fields. These latter, regretably, are not simultaneously expressed by the field equations of general relativity. And there's the rub.

There are, in consequence, two modes of approach to the problem. There might be found some way of grafting the laws of electrical fields on to the gravitational theory. But this, as Einstein, Eddington and others found, is unsatisfactory since the electro-magnetic fields as well as the gravitational fields are intrinsic features of space. The equations of general relativity should be so comprehensive as to contain both electro-magnetic fields and gravitational fields. To attempt to graft on the former is forcing a connection which should be organic. That is shown in the result of attempts to force artificially such a connection, leading to what are known mathematically as singularities which are not permissible.

The difficulty is seen if we compare the soundness of the basis for the gravitational and electro-magnetic field. In the former Einstein had a sound basis on which to build. This arose from the so-called principle of equivalence namely the expression of the equivalence of gravitational and inertial mass. Physical experiment of the most refined character shows them to be identical. This trustworthy principle of equivalence was a clear guide to the discovery of the metric of space.

There is no such clear guide in evidence for setting up a relationship between the gravitational field and the electro-magnetic field. Perhaps the famous Faraday-Maxwell electromagnetic equations are only a first approximation just as the Newtonian equations of mechanics are only a first approximation to the Einstein equations of general relativity.

The second method of approach to the solution of Einsteins vast problem is by purely speculative methods to attempt to hit upon even more generalized equations of general relativity which shall contain both the equations of the gravitational field and of the electro-magnetic field as special cases. The solution must be found in the principles of quatum mechanics with some reliance upon the probability factors involved.

The fundamental properties present in the ten gravitational field equations must occur in the new equations. From principles of analysis, four of the equations must be satisfied identically in order not to have overdetermination. Einstein, and his assistant, Mayer, have already found four separate sets of equations meeting this crucial test. Two of them contain the gravitational equations as special cases. Perhaps the bulk of nature has now ceased in one of these two.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Little St. Malo.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

To me as to many travelers France represents the essence of all things. What city is gayer than Paris? What town has more historical background than Avignon? What seashore resort surpasses the attractions of sun-swept Nice?

Little St. Malo, a seaport on the English channel, has much of the gayety of Paris, great historical background and it is a popular and pleasant summer playground. It is situated on a promontory [illegible]. The fortifications that surround the city [illegible] and for hundred years [illegible] the world. Jacques Cartier, discoverer of Canada and many other adventurers of the Seven Seas.

The face of St. Malo has been battered repeatedly not only by the adjoining sea but by the forces of the British who bombarded it frequently. But though St. Malo was built on rock to withstand the pounding of the surf and the attacks of hostile navies it is one of the most delightful spots in France, that most delightful of countries.

St. Malo maintains the interesting old life that gives it an individuality apart from the pleasant character of its age-old winding streets and the easy going people who inhabit it.

Each year this little city sends 100 vessels to the great fishing banks off Newfoundland. This is featured by a mass in services followed by a procession from the cathedral to the quay. All the leading people of St. Malo take part in this ceremony but the most picturesque part of the procession consists of the lads of the town carrying models of the ships that are going to brave the terrors of the Atlantic.

The cardinal of the town gives his benediction to all the vessels of the fleet, passing from one to another in a small boat. It is a gay, brave scene that the decorated boats, filled with the members of their crews and their families, present.

It is a scene to be long remembered, along with the grim ramparts of the town and the beach that has become one of the best-liked bathing places along the French coast.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 9.—Push cart markets give such a bright bourgeois flair to Rivington and Orchard streets on the lower East Side Ghetto, are making the last stand. The way of squalid tenements mowed down to make room for model and livable apartments.

Children who once played in the gutters romp in innumerable spacious playgrounds. The push cart is the final relic of a living squalor. There are 15,000 peddlers in the area. Mostly they are past middle age and of the credibly old.

Many push cart men have gone from Orchard and Rivington far uptown to open stores in the Bronx and live in airy walk-up apartments. Later if they prospered they opened stores on Broadway. And a number have attained a Fifth avenue store and a home on the Drive.

The fight against the push cart army is personal. The East Side chamber of commerce and other mercantile associations want them driven out because they contend their presence renders the section hideous and unsanitary and make a well ordered establishment impossible.

The push cart men say that as it is they are only able to make about four dollars a week high and in some instances average more than twenty-five cents. In opulent times they were able to realize a profit of from $10 to $15 a day. The difficulty will be in attempting to those thrown out of work.

Many can not speak English and know no other trade. In support of their plea to continue it is pointed out that a number of brilliant leaders in business, banking and the arts paid for their education selling from the pushcarts. Max Steuer, the great criminal lawyer, is a conspicuous example.

It Was Sixty-Eight Years Ago.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

Sixty-eight years ago this month ended a single thrilling experience of Ohio on her soil with the Civil war. Tired to the point of collapse, John Morgan, the confederate raider, surrounded by a mere handful of his three thousand cavalrymen with whom he had crossed the Ohio near Louisville, rode into the shade of a cherry tree in a little lane off the main traveled road, about three miles east of New Lisbon, in Columbiana county, thus protected from the fierce rays of the July sun, waited for the officers in charge of his pursuit to come and take him prisoner.

There was not the slightest resistance. All of the confederate cavalrymen were asleep in their saddles. Morgan, an Alabaman by birth, was engaged in a prosperous manufacturing business at Lexington, Kentucky, when the war began but abandoned it; he led a company of 200 militiamen, of which he was captain, behind the confederate lines and entered enthusiastically into that service. He exceeded orders when he led his cavalry force across the Ohio. He was to raid through Kentucky to try to draw off Rosecrans, who was driving down in Tennessee. Morgan himself conceived the Indiana and Ohio raid. His plan was to cut around above Cincinnati and recross into Ohio at Buffington island, about 200 miles away. Darting hither and thither in a zigzag fashion to deceive his pursuers as to his intentions, he found the ford he expected to use too strongly fortified. Only a few of his command got across. Seven hundred were captured, and with 300 he turned and rode north with apparently no definite plan of escape in mind.

With his chief officers he was confined in the Ohio penitentiary, from which he made his escape November 27 and reached the confederate lines in safety. Organizing another raiding party he was surrounded by federal troops at Greenville, Tennessee, September 4, 1864, and killed as he was trying to make his escape. It was the last attempt of the confederacy to carry the war into the northern states. Two weeks before, Lee's army had been hurled back from Pennsylvania. Vicksburg, Grant had taken Vicksburg, cutting the confederacy in two.

GOOD LAUGHS AT MARION TONIGHT

"Annabelle's Affairs" at the Marion tonight is a merry round of fun led by Victor McLaglen and Jeanette MacDonald and with an able ally in inebriated Roland Young. Miss MacDonald is married to a bearded brute from a western mining camp whom she hasn't seen in years. She still considers herself a married woman when MacLaglen arrives in little old New York plastered with money. The audience knows who he is the moment they lay eyes on him—but what a valet in an expensive hotel can do to a bearded man from the west. Some gold mining stock is the cause for the whole light affair. Miss MacDonald's husband gave them to her and in a penniless moment she sold them to Young for $700. They suddenly become valuable and she tries to get them back for her husband, with MacLaglen trying to get them too. He knows who she is, though. It's a nice comedy. A Walter J. Burns detective short, Talkertoon, Louise Fazenda comedy and newsreel complete the bill.

HOTEL MIX'UP AT OHIO TONIGHT

Three excellent players couldn't possibly turn out a poor picture, and "Sweethearts and Wives" at the Ohio tonight is an entertaining program picture with a dash of mystery romance supplied by Clive Brook, Billie Dove and Leila Hyams.

A man is murdered in a room in a hotel where Miss Dove is a maid. When things become too complicated she masquerades as the wife of Sidney Blackmer with whom Leila Hyams, a married woman, has come to the hotel. There is an incriminating button found in the murdered man's room by Miss Dove which has been torn from—but you'd know the murderer then, and anyway Miss Dove turns out to be a society bud searching for a diamond necklace stolen from her sister—and she gets the necklace.

GERMAN BANK HEAD SEEKING BIG LOAN

Hans Luther In London for Conference on Long-Term Credit.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 9—Hans Luther, president of the German reichsbank, arrived at Croydon field from Berlin this afternoon and hurried immediately to London for conferences with banking officials concerning a loan to Germany.

He denied himself to scores of newspapermen who sought to interview him at the airport, and officials at the Bank of England and the German embassy said they were without information as to the purpose of his visit.

He will discuss wth the heads of British banks, particularly with the Bank of England, a large loan which Germany must have promptly, and he hopes to convince British financiers that the action of German industries in guaranteeing the gold discount bank up to $125,000,000 entitles Germany to confidence abroad.

He hopes that the long term credit Germany requires can be obtained in London and it is understood that he will propose a loan of $250,000,000, a sum regarded as necessary at the time to German economic life.

PROFESSOR EINSTEIN enters another realm of "relativity," writing to President Hoover, protesting against the death sentences of eight young Negroes, in Scottsboro, Ala., about to be executed for alleged attacks on white women.

President Hoover has nothing to do with the matter, but Dr. Einstein probably does not know that. His sympathies are aroused, as were those of another great German, Heinrich Heine, a poet and also a Jew, who called our freedom "a wicked dream," because it was proposed to tar and feather a white clergyman for allowing his daughter to marry a Negro.

MUSSOLINI ISSUES ANTI-CATHOLIC BAN

Prohibits Fascist Membership in Catholic Action Organizations.

By The Associated Press

ROME, July 9—Premier Mussolini himself today placed a ban on Fascist membership in the Catholic action organizations, thereby raising the question on virtual abrogation of the concordat with the Vatican.

As the "duce" or chief of the Fascist party, he prohibited any of his followers from belonging to the several societies comprised in Catholic action, branches of which were dissolved by the government May 30.

The Vatican is now faced with the problem of whether the Fascist party action is equivalent to a government action and if so whether the ban on membership constitutes revocation of authority for such bodies to exist which is an essential part of the concordat.

Further the pope has always maintained that the concordat and Lateran treaty must stand or fall together, and if the concordat lapses then the Lateran treaty must lapse.

Today's action, although technically by the Fascist party, is a direct action by Premier Mussolini who is head of both the government and the party and whose attitude toward the church organizations is thus made clear.

The organizations placed under the party ban number about 10,000 and have an adult membership.

GOVERNMENT SEEKS TO AID COAL MINERS

Lamont Calls Conference of Operators To Discuss Problems of Industry.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 9 — America's ailing coal industry was laid out for preliminary diagnosis today when representative operators from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and other districts met with Secretary Lamont in the first serious cooperative effort of operators, miners and the government to put this industry back on a satisfactory economic basis.

Lamont called the operators here to hear from them the unfavorable symptoms which are now exhibited by the bituminous coal industry, held to be in a more serious plight than the anthracite branch.

There may be ways in which the government can help the coal industry get a solution of its problem; Lamont wanted to get from the operators what they thought could be done and if possible, to put the constructive recommendations into effect.

The gathering is the first upshot of a request made of President Hoover by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America sometime ago, that the government make an effort to assist the coal industry.

Mr. Hoover referred the matter to Lamont, and Secretary Doak, of the labor department, the former having assumed the responsibility of studying the case from the standpoint of the operators and the latter to obtain the viewpoint of the miners.

The principal problem of the bituminous industry is that of overproduction, while from the labor standpoint there possibly are too many miners.

Rudy Vallee, Radio Idol, Secretly Marries Actress

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 9—Rudy Vallee, who crooned himself to fame and fortune with a collegiate jazz band and a megaphone, has found his ideal girl.

The marriage of the 29-year-old Yale graduate and radio idol to Miss Fay Webb screen actress and daughter of the Santa Monica, Calif., chief of police, is announced. The ceremony was performed by Police Recorder Herbert Lighthipe of West Orange N. J. on Monday night.

It was the second marriage for Vallee, who rose to popularity with such songs as "Vagabond Lover" and "The Maine Stein Song." His marriage to Leonie Cauchois McCoy, daughter of a coffee merchant, was dissolved after three months by annulment in 1928.

Miss Webb was a Vallee radio fan before she met him when he went to Hollywood to make a picture. She is a brown-eyed brunette 23 years old, an accomplished dancer, pianist, swimmer and equestrienne. She played small screen parts with Metro Goldwyn-Mayer.

The singer's marriage now halts many rumors of his prospective engagement. His name has been linked with stage beauties and debutantes.

In his book, 'Vagabond Dreams Come True," in which he described his career from the time he left Westbrook, Me., to go to Yale and later to Broadway, he wrote:

"The rewards for all my strivings, schemings, labors and hopes is the comfort that I will receive from the company of the girl who brings happiness to me. Perhaps it will be just her company, just her presence by my side."

No Honeymoon Now

Theatrical and radio engagements for Vallee and the band are preventing a honeymoon trip. Mr. and Mrs. Vallee will remain at the new Vallee 14-room apartment overlooking Central park.

Mrs. Charles Vallee, the singer's mother, described her new daughter-in-law as a "charming and very pretty girl, with whom Rudy has kept company" since 1928."

Baron Ranks As One of World's Richest but Wants To Be Poor

By International News Service

PARIS—Baron Empain, 30-year-old Belgian heir, one of the richest young men of the old world, says that he would give anything to be poor.

Visiting the French capital not long ago he declared that he is really only happy when in camp where nobody recognizes him. In Paris or Brussels the baron cannot walk into a restaurant without the head waiter bowing him to the best table and inquiring about his health, and all that.

"The worst of it all is that I have no desire for anything," was the sad tale of the rich man. "It is terrible. If a friend wants a house I can buy it for him. If I want a million pounds cash for myself tomorrow I can have it.

He has given up gambling because he finds no fun in it. If he wins 4,000,000 francs it does him no good, he doesn't need a sou of it. If he loses, he is angry for several days afterward.

He reports the best time he ever had in his life was when he quarrelled with his father and came to Paris to live on $10 a month. He was a poor bank clerk. But at the end of the year his father forgave him.

BARBERTON REDS TO HOLD PROTEST MEET

Police Undecided on Attitude Toward Demonstration Scheduled Tonight.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., July 9—Mayor Seney A. Decker, of Barberton and members of the Barberton police force were undecided today what action they would take with regard to a meeting of Communists in their city tonight similar to the one broken up by tear gas and clubs June 26.

It is on police action at the previous meeting that the Summit county grand jury is making an investigation. Reversing the attitude he held prior to the previous meeting, Mayor Decker granted the Communists a permit to meet in Edgewood park.

Communists anticipate that approximately 12,000 persons would attend the meeting, which is to be in protest against police action at the last meeting and police action in the disappearance of C. Louis Alexander, Negro Communist organizer.

The Communists' meeting will be approximately 500 feet away from where the Barberton west side civic league will hold an ice cream social and band concert. C. A. Gardner, secretary of the league, assured the Communists, however, that a "soft pedal will be put on the music" when the speaking starts.

MEXICO TO HAVE OWN "HOLLYWOOD"

New Motion Picture Center in Constructive Stage in Mexico City.

By International News Service

MEXICO CITY — The "Hollywood of Mexico" is in the first stages of construction at Chapultepec Heights, a suburb in the extreme western section of Mexico City.

Two motion picture companies organized by Mexican business men expect to begin late this summer with the production of Spanish talkies to be contributed to all Spanish-talking countries. The actors and actresses will be recruited throughout Latin-America.

According to the backers of the respective projects the object is not so much to compete with Hollywood products as to supply a growing demand for films with unmistakable Hispanic settings and speech. The technical staffs will consist largely of Americans and Europeans.

200 Acres in Tract.

The projected Mexican film center at present comprises a tract of approximately 200 acres. A studio building, an office building, a projection theater with cutting rooms, a carpentry shop, an art studio and a library have been begun. There are plans afoot for development of a residential district and community center in connection with the studio structures, completing the scheme for a future new movie city.

The general office building, standing nearest to the entrance to the "city," is almost ready for occupancy. The largest of the buildings under construction is the studio building, which will be a brick structure with steel frame.

The "National Film Production Company of Mexico" announced its intention recently of beginning productions within a few months, starting with a capital of $500,000. An earlier company in the field, but which has not yet made pictures, is Empire Productions.

Now Hollywood Products.

Mexico's film productions, and for that matter those of all Latin America, at present come largely from Hollywood. Several German-made pictures and a few British samples have been tried out here, yet they have made no dent in the popularity of the Hollywood brand.

But almost every picture that refers in the least to Mexico or its customs receives its share of hooting and hissing from the audience, which thereby shows its displeasure over the alleged inaccuracy of scenes and customs as portrayed and the bad Spanish pronunciation of the actors.

Stimson Holds First European Conference

By The Associated Press

ROME, July 9—Colonel Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state had a long talk this morning with Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, the first of numerous statesmen whom he will meet while he is in Europe.

There was no official statement regarding the conference, but their talk it was revealed, touched on the Hoover moratorium and probably included discussion of new proposals which France is understood to have made regarding a naval accord with Italy.

The conversations also prepared the ground for Colonel Stimson's meeting with Premier Mussolini this afternoon.

FORECASTS BUMPER WHEAT CROP IN OHIO

Farm Bureau Economist Places Average Yield Per Acre at 22 Bushels.

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 9—Recent reports indicate the average yield of wheat in Ohio this year will be at least 22 bushels an acre, according to F. J. West, economist for the Ohio Farm Bureau.

West said if the estimate proved correct, the total crop of wheat should be about 42,000,000 bushels, the largest since 1923, when the total production was reported as 42,740,000.

He pointed out that wheat was of good quality in the northern half of Ohio and somewhat "spotted" as to quality in southern parts. He said reports of light weight and "chafy" condition had been received from early threshing in southern Ohio.

Reports by field representatives of the bureau were to the effect that yields were running from 50 bushels and more down to 10 bushels an acre, but that little threshing had been done in the state. Most of the reported yields, it was said, were from fields which have been harvested by the combine harvester and thresher.

West said the absence of rain during the harvesting period had been favorable for a high quality of grain insofar as moisture content was concerned. He explained that when wheat in the stock was in good condition chances for a high quality of grain at threshing time were greatly increased.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

Restaurant Proprietor Acquitted of Liquor Charge.

"Dutch" Walker, proprietor of a restaurant on south Main street, who was arrested on an illegal possession charge last week after police had found a small quantity of whisky at his place, was found not guilty by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin yesterday.

In handing down his decision Judge Martin said that while it was true the liquor had been found in his restaurant, the evidence did not show that it belonged to Walker. The bottle containing the liquor was found in a wash room at the rear of the restaurant, testimony showed.

Walker pleaded not guilty when arrested and following his hearing last week, Judge Martin announced he would reserve his decision.

EXPECTS RECORD

Farmer Anticipates 60-Bushel Yield on Small Plot.

KENTON, July 9—George T. Albright, Buck township trustee, is so positive that he has a record-breaking yield of wheat on a small plot at his home that he has issued a state challenge.

The grain standing six feet high, well-filled and headed, was cut Monday. Six pounds of twine were used to bind a little less than one acre of wheat although four pounds is considered a large amount of twine for that acreage. The grain will be threshed and weighed next week in the presence of official witnesses.

Albright says he will get sixty bushels on the plot. The present Ohio record is 46 bushels to the acre.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. ©1931, Carter Medicine Company.

We'll do well if we last ... Dripping Spring as it is!" ... might the man have pro... an inanimate machine ...

Pierre Donovan forced him to do his bidding. While the other toiled with pick and shovel, Pierre sat on guard.

It was a gruesome scene—the desolate surroundings, the dead body, the murderer forced by the fear of death to dig a grave for his victim; the outwardly impassive and implacable watcher with his weapon ready for instant use.

The man's task was perhaps half completed when suddenly with a startled cry he threw aside his pick and went down on his knees. Pierre, thinking the man's action a ruse to throw him off guard, did not move.

The man sprang to his feet and, seizing his pick, used it for a minute with fierce energy. Again he half disappeared in the grave. An instant later he arose, beside himself with wild excitement. In his hands was a large piece of white quartz.

"I've found it!" he yelled, waving his arms. "To think that it was right here all the time! We've been walking over it—sleeping over it—we've made fires and cooked over it." He roared with laughter; he danced a wild jig; he threw his hat in the air; he was mad with triumphant joy.

And all the time Pierro sat unmoved in watchful readiness.

"Come here, boy," cried the man; "come here and see!"

"I'm not interested," Pierre returned coldly, still thinking the man's actions a trick to entice him within reach. "Go on digging!"

For a minute the man looked at Pierre dumbly—he had forgotten the situation. Then he roared with laughter. "I'll say I'll go on. You poor fish! I've struck the lost Mother Mountain lode!"

"You're wasting your energy," said Pierre. "Finish the grave so we can be on our way."

The man gazed at Pierre as if dumfounded that any one could be so stupid. Then he said sarcastically, "I suppose you know gold when you see it!" and tossed a piece of the white quartz at the young man's feet.

Pierre did not even pick up the piece of quartz. "I tell you I am not interested," he said. "Go on with your digging."

"Do you realize what this strike means?" cried the other. "Do you realize that there's millions in this vein, the richest ever discovered? Are you human or are you a bloodless dummy?"

"I used to feel things," said Pierre, "I guess I'm dead—I'm sure that something in me is dead."

The other was quick to take advantage of what seemed to be a change in Pierre's mood. "I think I know what you mean, boy," he said in a tone of kindly sympathy.

"But listen, with a hundredth part of the wealth that's right here under our feet you could—you could build the most beautiful theater in the world to the memory of your mother."

Pierre started. "What do you know of my mother?"

"I know what Bruce told me," the other answered gently. "She was Harriet Noel. I remember seeing her on the stage once. Didn't she used to stand in the wings while you were acting your kiddie parts?"

The unexpected assault upon his emotions threw Pierre momentarily off his guard. The other, seeing the opening, moved to make the most of it. But Pierre leaped to his feet, on guard again. The man stopped, but smiled as one who, knowing that the cards in his hand insure the final outcome of the game, might smile at his opponent's success in taking one trick.

"To hell with your gold!" cried Pierre with passionate earnestness. "Look what your talk of gold has done for poor Bruce there! Look what it has done for Martin Bevis! Look what it has done for Ann! Look what it has done for me! Anything that I could do with this gold as a memorial to my mother would be an insult to her."

"All right," returned the other calmly. "But I'm not going to turn my back on these millions. I'm going to put up a location notice if you kill me while I'm doing it."

As he spoke he took from his pocket book a printed form and proceeded to fill it in while Pierre, disconcerted by the man's confident manner and by the feeling that there was something back of it which he did not understand, watched him.

"There!" he said, when he had finished writing. "I have located this lode in your name, Bruce's and mine. I've put Bruce in so that his wife could have his share. You and Ann together own control. I take only one-third."

"Suppose you succeed in getting me to Red Butte and turning me over to the sheriff? That won't bring Bruce back or do away with the fact that he was a thief and murderer. I say that for Ann's sake we ought never to let her know how her husband died, or that he was guilty of that bank crime and was planning to let her father suffer for it. We will report that you and Bruce and I were together when we struck this lode; and that when we were on our way back Bruce wandered off the trail into Skeleton Sink. We'll say it was impossible for us to go after him because we were so short of water that we barely made it to the Spring ourselves. That story will go without question. With the fortune we have here we'll find a way to clear Ann's father. It will all be easy enough with these millions to help us."

Holding out the location notice the man approached Pierre. "Here," he said, "look this over while I fix up a monument for it."

Still smiling and covertly watching Pierre, he began piling up a little monument of rocks such as prospectors use to mark their claims.

Pierre, keeping him covered took the paper from his hands and wondered uneasily at the triumphant smile on the man's face.

Pierre looked at the location notice: "Bruce Carey, Pierre Donovan, Roy Donovan."

"Roy Donovan—Roy Donovan!" Pierre rose slowly to his feet.

The other man faced him with a triumphant laugh. "Well, son, it's been a long time since we met."

"Are you Roy Donovan?"

"Surest thing you know."

"My—my father?"

Roy Donovan laughed. "That's another card in our little game, heh, kid? I somehow can't quite see Harriet Noel's boy turning his own father over to hang for murder, can you?"

With bowed head Pierre turned his back on his companion and moved listlessly toward the spot where he had left his canteen and pack.

Roy Donovan followed stealthily, step by step.

Dropping his gun, Pierre swung the pack over his shoulder and picked up the canteen. But he paused and, as if his strength were not equal to the anguish of the situation, he leaned heavily against the low, rocky wall, his face hidden in his arms.

The older man, moving swiftly, silently reached the gun. Another instant and the weapon was in his hand.

To Be Continued.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Noel's Contrition Is Balm to Mary's Heart.

I COULD not resist a furtive side glance at Avis Arlen as Noel made his breathless appeal to me. "Must Mary go?" Never in all my life had I seen so crushing a defeat administered to any girl making the determined play for a man which she had made for Noel. I knew that in that moment whatever hurt and humiliation had been Mary's because of Noel's temporary defection had been amply revenged by the indifference he had shown to his erstwhile charmer of the Summer, and his utter absorption in herself coupled with his frenzied jealous insistence that she stay away from the Brixton house party.

What would be Avis Arlen's outward reaction to this public flouting" I knew perfectly well what she was feeling a murderous inclination to take Mary's slender throat between her hands and silence that mocking, lilting voice. But I almost sent up my hand in a salute as I saw her face keep its smiling childlike mask, and heard her say sweetly.

A Matter of Courage?

"Poor No-el! He'll be left with nobody to comfort him but little Avis. We'll just have to go off and cry on each other's shoulders. Come along, No-el."

Was she as game as she appeared, I wondered as she finished, or was she so wrapped in self-conceit that she counted upon being able once more to distract Noel from his allegiance to Mary? Whichever her reaction, Noel paid no more attention to her than if she had been a buzzing mosquito which he had not the time to slap; but he kept his eyes fixed upon me, not even seeing the frown with which his father was regarding him.

"Must she go?" he asked again.

"Yes, she must, Noel," I said. "There is no possible way out of it. But it won't be very long, a week at the longest."

The Master Speaks

"A week!" Noel's voice was that of a shipwrecked sailor seeing a boat drift away from him. "A week!"

"May I remind you, son," his father struck in with elaborate courtesy, "that we are keeping our hostess up and our guests waiting. Better say your adieux quickly and then escort Avis to the car. Au revoir, Mary! Remember, this is your last outing. You must settle down to work when you come back."

"I'll remember," Mary said with an enigmatic look at him, and I wondered if she were speculating as I was upon the reason behind this sudden reminder that she was being groomed for an appearance as a Veritzen dramatic star. He had been unusually lenient in his willingness to let her lessen his rigid regime during his absence. But was this tightening of the reins merely his normal return to his well-known role of martinet, or did he have an especial reason for strict attention to work? Did he mean to make it impossible for Noel to see her often?

Mr. Veritzen looked down at Avis with a paternal smile.

"My son is in a bad humor, I am afraid," he said, "but I am counting on you to get him back to normalcy again. Make him come out to the car at once. I will get your mother."

He walked away, and I shook a metaphorical fist after him. His was that most infuriating of actions, the keeping of the technical part of a pact while breaking the spirit of it. He had promised me upon that memorable last Christmastide that he would restore to Noel his mother's inheritance, that he would give Mary back her chance to become a Veritzen star, and that he would voice no further objections to the betrothal of the two.

He had kept his promises so far. Noel had his inheritance so legally secured that not even his father could again take it away from him. Mary was being regarded by everyone in the Veritzen organization as a future star of unusual brilliance, and as yet he had done nothing openly which could be construed as a reluctance to continue his approval of the betrothal. But I was sure that he deliberately had thrown Avis Arlen into Noel's path and was endeavoring in every possible way to aid her in her flagrant attempt to secure Noel for herself.

Noel had turned back to Mary oblivious to every other person in the room.

"Come out in the hall a minute." His hoarse whisper was audible both to Avis Arlen and to me. I fairly held my breath for a second. Would Mary obey that imperious, loving demand, or would she let her woundest pride dictate a refusal of his passionate desire to kiss her good-bye.

Avis Arlen pretended not to have heard the whisper.

"No-el," she cooed, "did you hear your daddy telling you to bring Avis out to the car? He'll be mad by us if we don't go."

But Noel did not hear her. Mary had nodded and permitted herself to be rushed out of the room into the hall. With the feeling that I was the most feline of all cats, but rejoicing meanly in the sensation, I turned to Avis Arlen with a smile.

"Oh, you must give an engaged couple time to kiss each other good night," I said.

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

THURSDAY, and I slept raw it was so hot last night. I got up and let Jubilee down by his rope, and then I wiped the sweat off my face with my shirt and put it and my short britches on and went down and got the pail and went out to milk the cows, and the bunch came sweating along before I got done, and then Feeble and Younias and Maggie came, and Feeble asted me if I was going swimming, and when I asted her who wanted to know she said she did, because if I was they were going with me and had brang their bathing suits.

I told her I would like to go swimming with them only I didn't have a bathing suit, and then Younias said she had brang her mother's suit for me to wear. I told them I would see about it, but I didn't think I would be going swimming today because I had a lot of things to do. Then they got talking about it while I was in the house feeding my face and my mother said why not all put on our suits and wear them out to the pasture and come back for our clothes when we got done swimming, so I had to go up to my room and put on her mother's bathing suit and they put theirs on in my ant's room, and theirs fitted them like their skins, but Younisses mother's suit hung on me, and then the Last Hog of Tripe had to but in and say he would take my cows out so I could go in with the girls. I wanted to bust him, but my mother said that would be a good idea. So the bunch went over to the vacant lot to gather up the cows and me and Jubilee and Younias and Feeble and Maggie went out to the bank of the pasthouse, and the girls went in and I told them something, so they all watched and I climb up the sycamore and went out on the limb and took a header, and when I hit the river the bathing suit stayed on top and I dove almost to the bottom, and I came up and went to climb up the bank and Feeble hollered, "Thomas Aristides! Your bathing suit!" and she pointed and I saw it floating down-stream getting wetter and sinkier every minute, and that was the first I knew that I didn't have it on. I got in time. I had to put [illegible] and put it on right. Feeble said I would of been in an offal fix if I hadn't got it before it sank. So would they. They would have had to go home and get me my clothes.

After that we had a good time and stayed in almost all day till some fellas I didn't know came and started to take off their clothes and go in. I told them I would lick the first fella that went in, and the biggest one told me he wouldn't fight a little girl. Feeble laughed so hard that I got mad and paisted him one. So they stayed out. But we went home anyhow. Younias is very fair and she got offal sunburnt. My mother had to grease her with salve when we got home.

July 4 Racket Too Much for Poor Old Shep

"Shep was a darned good dog, but she had a weak heart," sadly wailed a West Side resident several days ago as he gazed with sad eyes on what a few minutes before had been a lively up and doing member of the canine family but which was now a rapidly stiffening victim of a weak heart and life's uncertainties.

Shep, according to information supplied by bystanders, had been gazing with distrustful eyes upon several boys who were giving vent to their patriotism by shooting firecrackers, when a member of the party coming up from the rear placed a lighted firecracker on the ground near the dog's feet.

Greatly to the surprise of the boys, Shep, instead of bounding away as the firecracker exploded and as they expected she would, quietly folded up and without an expostulation passed out of this unkind world. All efforts of the owner who poured water on the dog and profanity on the boys, failed to revive her dogship and she has now become a lamented member of the family.

The meeting was to have been held last Saturday, but was postponed because of the holiday.

Afraid of Mice? Not This Woman

By United Press

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—There is at least one woman in Missouri who would not be up to a table-top if she saw a mouse scuttle across the floor. Mrs. H. B. Sutter, of Springfield, has 2,000 of them.

Mrs. Sutter not only does not fear mice, she loves them. And well she might, for the tiny animals bring her a fine income. She shipped 5,000 fat white mice to a firm in New Columbia, N. Y., last week to be used for experimental purposes. There still are almost as many left in the clean little bedding where Mrs. Sutter feeds and cares for them.

It takes a lot of mice to eat 100 pounds of rolled oats every other day, not to mention a few hundred pounds of cheese each week. When they grow to a marketable weight of 16 to 20 grams, off they go to market, where, according to Mrs. Sutter, they "shoot dreadful germs" into them.

Mrs. Sutter is not worried a bit about a scarcity in the supply of mice. They are unusually prolific, she says, producing litters of from seven to ten every five weeks. They mature in a month.

Using motors of only eight horsepower, German experimenters have flown fanless airplanes at less than usual speeds and descended at sharper angles than possible with swift craft.

Loss of Four Sons in World War Is Tragic Chapter in Life of First Lady of France

By The Associated Press

PARIS—A frail, black robed woman—mourning four sons lost in the World war—has stepped into the French presidential palace as its first hostess in seven years.

"Madame Paul Doumer, wife of the president of the French republic by virtue of designation by the world at large.

"The bonne femme francaise" (a good French wife)—that's what she means to France.

Since the day she married young Prof. Paul Doumer on 1360 a year she has devoted her life to being "une bonne femme." She has been 54 years a wife, eight times a mother, five times a grandmother.

New Career at 70

Now at 70 she tackles one of the stiffest jobs of her career—that of being hostess and home maker in the austere Elysee palace. The place has been without a hostess since 1924, the previous president, Gaston Doumergue, having been a bachelor until 13 days before he retired.

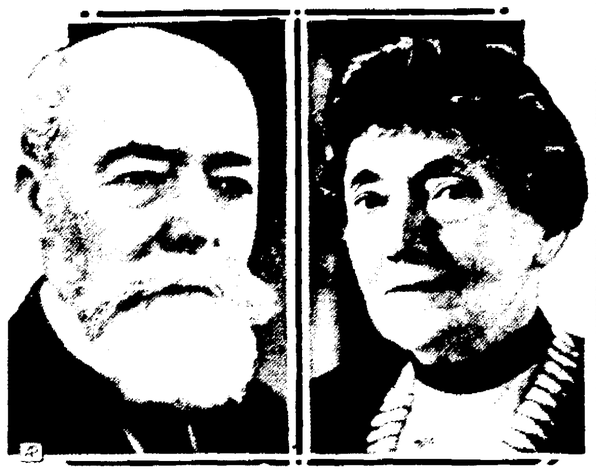
She was a girl in her teens when as Blanche Richet, she married Paul Doumer, son of a road worker, former engraver's apprentice and 21-year-old teacher of mathematics. The man who is now president of France became a professor in order to marry her, since her father decreed he must obtain that rank before the wedding could take place.

Goes Into Journalism

A few years later M. Doumer, imbued with political ambitions, left the educational field to become editorial director of "The Tribune" at Laon, France. Several years afterward he was elected deputy from the Aisne district. And then began the long political career in which he served as minister of finance, governor general of Indo-China, president of the chamber of deputies and president of the senate.

Mme. Doumer is credited with having encouraged the political ambitions of her husband, aiding him often, counseling him repeatedly. She has followed him wherever his work demanded, making a home for him in the French colonies or a historic old Parisian palace.

The sorrow she experienced in the loss of her four sons, all of whom were cited for distinguished service in the World war, has endeared her to the hearts of French citizens. Both she and her husband, France believes, will work unceasingly for peace.



Here are new photographs of M. Paul Doumer, new president of France, and his wife. Their entrance into the Elysee palace, the French "White House," crowns a partnership of mingled triumph and tribulation extending over 54 years.

City Sends Warrant for Scrip Issued in 1873

By United Press

MEXICO, Mo.—Mexico city officials have mailed to Mrs. Edna L. McNamee, of Chewelah, Wash., a new $1 warrant to redeem a scrip issued by the city in 1873.

Mrs. McNamee, in presenting the 58-year-old scrip, said it had been in her family about half a century.

City records revealed that for several years after the Civil War such scrip issues were frequent, and that this $1 warrant was part of the last authorized.

Hen and Baby Sea Lion Are Zoo Freaks

By International News Service.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—At the St. Louis Zoo, a baby sea lion born on June 5 and one of the few ever born in captivity, refuses to enter water.

The baby sea lion almost drowned recently when it was placed in a shallow pool of water. Since then, it has refused to enter the water, squealing and scrambling toward land every time it is put into the pool.

Another freak of nature is found in the actions of a Plymouth Rock hen, which has been denied normal satisfaction of the brooding instinct because of a penchant for breaking eggs, and has adopted four puppies.

At meal time the hen scratches the ground for them and appears puzzled when they turn up their noses at bits of grain. They have, however, eaten bran mash set out for other chickens.

K of P, 5 Serv U Wel 1, Kappas 6, General Excavator 3

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

STARTING Somerlot pitched a good game for the Serv-U-Wel Grocers of the Commercial league yesterday against the K. of P nine But he made one mistake and that error cost him a ball game He tossed one straight through the middle in the last half of the seventh to Bill Fetter when the K. of P team had the bases full and one out Fetter took just one look and slammed it out of the outfield for a home run that sent the score from 1-0 in the Grocers' favor to 4-1 for the K of P The victory shoved the Serv U Wel team out of a tie for first place in the league standings into third place and brought the winner up to a tie for fourth position

Kappas Have Scare

The General Excavator threw considerable of a scare into the Kappas yesterday before bowing to the 1930 champs by a 6-3 count Both of the games were play-offs of contests originally scheduled for May 29

Somerlot and Peadon staged a regular mound duel in the Serv-U-Wel-K of P game Each of them gave up five safe hits Somerlot kept his hits scattered in such an effective manner that no K. of P's had crossed the plate up to the seventh while Peadon had allowed but one run against him. The Grocers took their one run lead in the fourth frame when Somerlot cracked out a triple and scored on Klem's single As far as scoring was concerned in the first six stanzas, that ended it Fetter did the rest, with his four-baser in the last inning

Gilmore Is Wild

Henry Gilmore turned in a nice pitching exhibition for the General Excavator nine but inability to control the ball cost him a chance to stage an upset by defeating the Kappas Gilmore got himself in hot water all through the game by walking men The Kappas took the lead at the start by one run but lost it in the first half of the fourth when the Excavator batters clubbed in three runs The Excavator lead didn't last long for the Kappas immediately started a temporary bombardment of Gilmore and when the smoke had cleared away the score was 6-3 for the Kappas The league champs couldn't do a thing after that in the scoring line but neither could the Excavator so another chance for an upset was tossed away

Softball Board Allows Protest on Two Games

TWO recreation baseball games, one in the Industrial and the other in the No 1 Sunday school league, will have to be replayed as a result of protests allowed last night by the city baseball commission. The Gas company team and Silk Mills of the Industrial circuit will have to replay their entire game of June 18 and the Lee Street and Trinity Baptist will have to replay the part of their game of July 7 which was played after the staging of the play which caused the protest of the game by Trinity

Trinity protested the game with Lee Street which the latter team won 4-3 in 10 innings Glenn Price umpiring bases made a ruling on a play which he later voluntarily admitted a misinterpretation of the rules Price's error was in ruling a doubleout on a play in which one man should have been safe The commission ordered the game played over from the point of this play Consequently when the contest is replayed it will be started in the fourth inning with one man on first base and one man out. No date was set for the play off

Gas Company Protest

The Gasco club was allowed its protest of the Silks Mills game on account of Umpire Welch having allowed a Silk Mill runner to score from third base on an interference play. Welch had ruled a man out running from second to third but allowed another runner to score from third This also is in violation of the rules and caused the allowal of the Gasco protest

The Epworth Seniors have protested a game played July 7 with the Epworth Bishops but this protest was not acted on last night on account of insufficient time after the filing of the protest to notify the Bishops' manager and the game's umpires.

Plan Benefit Game

Aside from these protests there was only one other item of major importance considered by the commission Elmer Shaw, secretary of the board, was ordered to continue plans for the staging of a doubleheader benefit for Wednesday, July 15, at Lincoln park. Two games will be played starting at 6 p. m but the competing teams are not certain as yet. It is probable that all four leagues will be presented in the double bill

The commission also offered its full cooperation with the Y Indus club in the holding of a benefit show at the Marion theater on July 22 and 23, with the proceeds going toward the expenses of accidents in softball here which have occurred recently Two men have been seriously injured, Stewart Jones having a broken shoulder and Don Cox a broken leg

HORNSBY AT THIRD

By International News Service

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 9 - Rogers Hornsby can still play third base after 15 years of action at second, that much was shown by his shifting of the club lineup against the Pirates The Chicago manager figured the strain on his weak right leg would be less on the hot corner so moved Bill Jurges to second, Hornsby came in fast and threw well on two bunts and grabbed one tough grounder The Pirates aimed several bunts at him but they went foul

Senators Helpless To Halt Onrushing Champions as Grove Is Invincible.

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR
Associated Press Sports Writer

ONCE again the Washington Senators have fired and fallen back leaving the Athletics to roll serenely forward toward third straight title.

By turning back their most persistent rivals again yesterday, 6 to 2 the Mackmen made it two out of three for the series and extended their lead to six and a half games over the American league field The prospect they will be overtaken now appears remote

Connie Mack called on his great lefthander Robert Moses Grove to take the deciding game of the series and the slim portsider responded nobly to score his seventeenth victory of the campaign The Senators pecked away at him for 11 hits as many as the champions could get off four Washington pitchers but they were helpless in the pinches

Yanks Win Two

Meanwhile the New York Yankees, with whom the Athletics open a three game series at Yankee stadium today, were mowing down the Boston Red Sox in a doubleheader, 13 to 3 and 9 to 4, to climb within four and a half games of second place

Babe Ruth enjoyed a big day with his twenty-first home run and three singles

The Cleveland Indians went eleven innings to defeat the Chicago White Sox in their opener 10 to 6 In addition to doing a fine job of relief pitching the last five innings, Willis Hudlin helped win his own game with a single that scored the first of five runs in the eleventh

Lyn Storti and George Burns, two members of the St Louis Browns' "pony" infield, starred as the Browns broke a three-game losing streak with a 7 to 1 triumph over Detroit Burns had three singles and Storti a triple and double.

National Tightens

The National league race tightened as the New York Giants dropped a hard fought decision to the Phillies, 5 to 4 The Brooklyn Robins held idle by rain at Boston, went into a virtual tie with the McGrawmen for second place, three percentage points back

An error by Bill Terry enabled the Phils to score the winning run in the ninth and broke up a hurling duel between Frank Watt and Fred Fitzsimmons

Heine Meine, Pittsburgh southpaw, stopped the onrushing Chicago Cubs, in their tracks when he held them to six hits and beat them, 5 to 2

For the third straight day, the Cincinnati Reds were not scheduled

COLLEGIATE BASEBALL STARS LAND JOBS AS MATES POUND PAVEMENTS

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK -While many of their classmates of a few weeks ago are pounding the pavements in the hard business of looking for jobs, athletic leaders of the 1931 crop of college graduates have found a way of beating "Old Man Depression" by following the sport at which they were winning fame and college letters a few weeks ago.

An unusually large number of the college baseball stars of this season have cast their lot with professional baseball, a dozen or more of them signing up with major league clubs or the big minors

Start in Minors

Few if any of them are expected to jump right into big time baseball but many are considered good enough prospects to warrant attention and contracts

The Philadelphia Athletics and New York Yankees have been the busiest of the major league clubs in searching out college talent, while Pennsylvania has been the greatest contributor so far

The A's have signed up Big Jim Peterson, one of Penn's two star right-handed pitchers, and Joseph Carey, a portside hurler who starred as a sophomore at Washington college in Maryland and in the off season with the Stock Hall club of the Chesapeake Bay league

Penn Star Signs

Walter Masters, ace of the Penn pitching staff, who lost only three games out of 28 in his college career and led the Eastern intercollegiate league hurlers last season joined the Washington Senators shortly after graduation.

A third Pennsylvanian, Rolf "Swede" Carlsten, captain and shortstop of the champions of the college league, joined the Baltimore Orioles of the International league

The Yanks' share of the college talent is Robert "Red" Rolfe, Dartmouth's captain, who also led his team from the short field, and Malcolm "Buck" Fyfe, right handed pitching star from Northwestern

Fesler in Houston

Wesley Fesler, Ohio State's great all around star, was one of the first to join the professional ranks signing with the Columbus American association club, from which he was sent to Houston in the Texas league

He plays in the outfield Two more All American football players also are in professional baseball now

Fred Sington Alabama's All American tackle, recently was farmed out by Atlanta to High Point in the Piedmont league.

Barton "Botchy" Koch, Baylor guard, who made the Associated Press All America second team last fall, is catching for Wichita Falls of the Texas league.

Arthur "Junie" Sondheim of Brown recently made his first appearance on the mound for the Buffalo International league club.

ST. PAUL STEPS OUT IN ASSOCIATION RACE

Columbus Drops Pair and St. Paul Takes Good Lead Over Rivals.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 9 A white-hot struggle a week ago, the American Association championship race today was a parade, with St. Paul comfortably out in front.

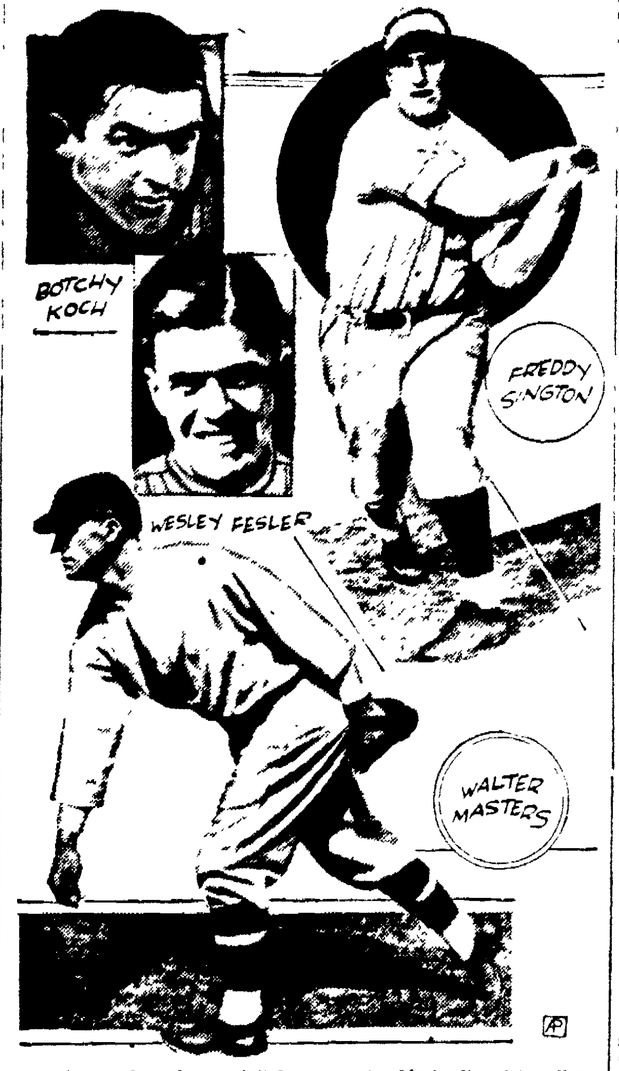
Louisville, Milwaukee and Indianapolis all were day to day possibilities until the Fourth of July came along, but the holiday saw the Saints speed up and today they had a five and one-half game margin over the runner-up Colonels

Albert Leifield's band yesterday took a double reef in Columbus, winning the first game of a doubleheader, 10 to 3, and the second, 5 to 3, while Louisville and Milwaukee were taking beatings.

Ed Holley gave Louisville only three hits and Kansas City took the third game of the series, 5 to 2. The victory gave the Blues an edge of 2 to 1 in the set.

Indianapolis slammed three Milwaukee hurlers for 23 hits and a 17 to 8 victory

Toledo collected 15 hits off four Minneapolis pitchers and won a 11 to 7 decision. Bruno Haas and Ernie Winggard hit homers for Toledo, and Charlie Dressen and Spencer Harris got them for the Millers.



These college boys didn't have any trouble landing jobs after graduation because along with their "A.B.'s" they had "H.R.'s" and "S.O.'s" which mean home runs and strike outs. Koch of Baylor and Fesler, great Ohio State athlete, are pastiming in the Texas league. Sington, Alabama football hero, recently was farmed to the Piedmont league by Atlanta of the Southern association. Masters jumped from the Pennsylvania campus direct to the Washington Senators.

CHAMP IS BEATE IN LINKS TOURN

Glenn Bishop Eliminated in Ohio Amateur b known" from Columbus.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 9—A new champion of Ohio amateur golf will be crowned on the morrow at the Wyandot Golf club course.

This was assured late yesterday when the crown was swept from the curly head of Glenn Bishop by Theron Green an unheralded and unsung Columbus player.

From the first tee Green's lusty drives started the crown to tottering and finally brushed it aside on the nineteenth green when he laid an approach dead within two feet of the pin, blasting the hopes of the champion to repeat his triumph of last year at Toledo.

Along with Green seven other hopefuls will continue their battle today for the state's highest amateur award These seven are Johnny Florio, one time champion Norman Seidensticker E B Merkle all of Columbus; Scotty Reston and Bob Kepler of Dayton, George Berry of Newark and Jack Cummins of Cleveland

To start the third round Florio will tee off against Seidensticker, Reston will meet Berry, Kepler clashes with Merkle and Green will take on Cummins

Predictions are being freely made that the final of this year's amateur will be a repetition of one of the semi final rounds of the national intercollegiate a few weeks ago at Chicago when Florio and Kepler, both members of the Ohio State university team, met. In test Kepler triumphed ov hole route, 6 and 5.

These two are paired ent brackets and it seem certain that the two are c meet, providing they d same brand of golf that in the last three days.

CONSIDER TRUCK

Council May Buy Fire Equipment for Rural Runs.

RENTON, July 9—Whether or not a pumper fire truck might be purchased by the city for use in making rural runs instead of the present fire equipment, is to be determined by a special committee named at a meeting of the executive group Tuesday night.

The committee named by President J. R. Rowles includes Ellis H. McFarland, W. P. Routh and Roger Hollenshead.

Details of the plan whereby such service could be maintained in Renton were outlined by a representative from a Prospect Fire Engine Co. During a preliminary discussion it was suggested that possibly officials in townships in the vicinity might be called into conference to discuss such a proposition and its advisability.

Mr. Clifton Lower,
Lower's Pharmacy,
W. Center and Leader Sts
Dear Mr. Lower

I greatly appreciate this opportunity of saying a few words regarding the benefit I have derived from taking Diamond Blood Capsules, purchased at your drugstore I am 20 years old and reside at 767 Bennett st, this city. I was born in Marion. I have a large number of friends and acquaintances that know me, especially at the Commercial Steel Casting Co They remember me as being troubled with anemia with an unsightly skin disturbance, the result of bad blood conditions Prior to taking Diamond Blood Capsules I spent $500 to $600 with serum treatments, etc., without any special benefit. During the last two years my condition was such that I was frequently unable to work for many days at a time Cliff Walters of Leader st., a friend, directed my attention to Diamond Blood Capsules Three months ago I purchased my first bottle of capsules at your store. In all to date I have taken three large bottles. Believe it or not, my skin is clearing up. My strength is better than at any other time in my life. My blood is back to normal. You have my full permission to use this letter publicly in order that others now suffering may be able to regain their health

Respectfully,
Willard Larcom.

The above letter is an example of the reception accorded our Diamond Blood Building Capsules.

Concentrated liver with all its properties for producing rich new blood combined with cleansing agencies to drive poison and impurities from your system and cleanse your blood and you have the story of Diamond Blood Building capsules

For them, we do not claim they are a "cure-all," but we do claim that regardless of the nature of your ailment, if you are in a weakened condition of any sort or failing in any way, you will not make a mistake in taking Diamond Blood Building capsules.

Grains Average Lower as Prices Slump in Liverpool Trading.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 9—With Liverpool reporting cheaper Russian offerings of wheat and large tenders on contracts, grains averaged lower early today. Fresh low price unsurpassed since 1896 were reached by wheat. Opening unchanged to ¼ cent down, wheat later showed an all around setback. Corn started ⅛ off to ⅛ up and held near the initial limits.

The fact that the Liverpool wheat market showed new downturns, although at a bottom unequalled for 277 years put buyers at a disadvantage. Bears gave stress also to advices that the German government demanded 97 per cent of German grown wheat be used in flour. Rallies in wheat prices, however, were promoted by assertions that the financial situation had improved, and that bank runs there were no longer feared.

Relative strength which developed in the corn market helped to steady wheat after new bottom levels had been touched. There were also reports that domestic mills had bids out for Illinois wheat at one cent a bushel higher than a Chicago basis, and were absorbing most of the rural offerings. Kansas advices said many farmers in central and southern districts were withholding their wheat and piling it on the ground. Corn was bullishly affected at times by absence of speculative selling Oats derived firmness from crop damage reports.

Woman Finds Self "Without a Country"

By International News Service

PARIS—The well-known "man without a country" had nothing on a pretty English woman, Peggy Vere, who makes her home in Paris. Some years ago she married an American dancer, Oscar Mouvet and thereby took on his nationality. Later, her husband died and now, on the eve of seeking work in England, she has been told she must first obtain a home office permit.

After her marriage, she did not automatically become an American citizen, because she lived in France with her husband, and she would have had to live two years in America before being able to take out papers for her citizenship.

The Women's Congress which will meet in Geneva this summer, is hoping to arrange a number of these perplexing questions which are ever arising for women who have married foreigners.

EAGLE GETS EARLY START IN FLYING

Learns Before It Is Hatched, Ohio Biologist Reveals

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND — The national emblem, the American eagle, is a fitting representation of the independence of the United States.

Dr. Francis H. Herrick, professor emeritus of biology at Western Reserve university, offers the latest contribution to the tradition of the eagle's independence.

The American eagle literally learns to fly in the egg, before it is hatched, and is not dependent upon an anxious mother to flit about, giving it first lessons.

Instinct in Germ Plasm

The flying instinct, he says, is born in the germ plasm of the egg.

Dr. Herrick has spent 10 years in delving into the private life of the bird.

Near Vermilion, O., where eagles have made their homes for 80 years, Professor Herrick erected tall towers close to their aeries, watched them for long hours during the nesting period, and took still and motion pictures of them; also copious notes.

Only two or three eagles are hatched in the nest at a time, Herrick observed, generally only two.

Fighters from the First

From the earliest age they are fighters, and a little downy nestling has been known to kill its companion.

Their home, the aerie, is about five feet across and eight or nine feet high, made of limbs an inch to two inches in diameter, and weighing around two tons. The aerie lasts for many generations until a storm blows it from the top of a tall, sturdy tree.

"When about eight weeks old the bird begins hopping from one side of the aerie to the other.

"When about nine weeks old it rises about eight to 10 feet in the air and circles around the nest many times a day.

"During night practice it takes lessons from its instinct in seizing its prey. The prey is a stick, which it pounces upon, holds it in its talons, like it would a fish, and soars. When finally it leaves the nest it is a master of flight; nature does not trust it until it is.

No Parental Teaching

"The parent birds take no part in the lessons, but during all this practice the bill-to-bill feeding is continued."

Dr. Herrick found the eagle can stand severe cold, and never migrates unless there is a heavy snow. One eagle, finally bagged by hunter, was found to have 18 shots in its body, the result of many unsuccessful attempts to kill it.

The eagle's realm is a matriarchy. If a female bird loses her mate she goes in search of another, Dr. Herrick found. If a male loses his mate he waits on the aerie for a female to arrive and claim him.

The bird is extremely rapid in its movements. In photographing it, Dr. Herrick had to use a camera with a shutter opening in one 400th of a second.

Dr. Francis H. Herrick, professor emeritus of biology at Western Reserve university, and two photographs of eagles he obtained in Ohio by climbing towers erected close to aeries. Left, a mother eagle is bringing a fish from Lake Erie to her newly hatched young. The nestling of four weeks, lower right, is covered with gray down.

BEAR FOR PETS

By International News Service.

NEW LONDON, Conn.—Students at the coast guard academy here have long had a penchant for bears. Three they have had as mascots, each of them named Obje, with a numeral after the name. When the bears get too big and too restless they are turned over to some boo. Obje, Third, came into port lately from Asheville, N. C., where the Federal forest service found the little creature, weighing 12 pounds and decidedly wobbly on its legs. Students at the academy have been nursing Obje, Third, taking turns at getting up in the night to feed it from a bottle.

Dean Inge Tells England How To Become Utopia in A.D. 3000

By International News Service

LONDON—A land without taxes, debt, disease, army, navy, crime or lawyers, and in which physical perfection will be cultivated and beauty recognized in the body as well as in the face

This is the Utopian ideal which "Gloomy" Dean Inge foresees for England in the year A. D. 3,000 if the people really want it

Lecturing before the Royal Institution on "The Future of the Human Race," the Dean declared that the future of the world lies in the hands of the masses and they can make or mar it

Outlines Program

He suggests the following conditions as a basis for an ideal social order

Cultivation of physical perfection No persons allowed to have children without certificates of bodily and mental fitness. Large families neither approved nor desired. An A-1 husband or wife as much sought after as wealth and titles are now

A rational costume for both sexes, cheap, becoming and scanty, enabling beauty to be recognized in the body and limbs as well as in the face

War and all tariff walls abolished. Most of the nations nearly self-supporting.

No army, navy, national debt, foreign politics or doles, which would make the functions of the central government almost nominal

A parliament which meets only for a fortnight or so a year and is composed of a dignified and elderly senate of ex officials and retired business men.

Religious Union Urged

United Christian worship in each parish. Medical assistance given by the state.

Crime never punished by imprisonment. Reformatories for first offenders, and if a delinquent is pronounced incorrigibly anti-social he should be privately and painlessly extinguished in a lethal chamber without any publicity or humiliation to his family.

Infectious disease completely stamped out, except for the common cold

Bonfires gave firemen the second run of the last two days today at 10.30 a. m. when a shed at the home of Howard Nevhart of 411 Mary street caught fire as the result of a bonfire having been built to close to the building. When firemen from the No. 3 station arrived, the shed was ablaze and was destroyed before the fire could be extinguished. The loss is estimated at $25. A bonfire built to close to an out building was the cause of a small fire at the home of Velma Wood, of 795 Silver street, Tuesday afternoon.

MAN EXHAUSTED ON ROAD TAKEN TO JAIL

Arkansas Painter Partially Overcome by Heat Near Here.

Herbert Fishback, 23, of Fayetteville, Ark., exhausted from long traveling on the road and partially overcome by heat, last night found attaches of the sheriff's office willing to give a helping hand. As a result, he is resting today in county jail, regaining strength to resume his journey home.

Fishback and two companions left New York several days ago to return to Fayetteville. Fishback had been a painter in New York, but was discharged when work became slow.

When he became seriously ill here, his companions helped him to a straw pile near the Drake lot on Fairground street where they literally buried him in straw to prevent him from chilling last night.

Fairground street residents called Sheriff C. C. Fye and Deputy M. E. Baldwin, who took Fishback to the jail for food and rest. He had been lying sick in the straw pile all day Wednesday.
